Introduction to EDA

Pursuant to Council Decision 2011/411/CFSP of 12 July 2011 defining the statute, seat and operational rules of the European Defence Agency and repealing Joint Action 2004/551/CFSP, the mission of the European Defence Agency (hereinafter “EDA” or “the Agency”) is "to support the Council and the Member States in their effort to improve the EU's defence capabilities in the field of crisis management and to sustain the CSDP as it stands now and develops in the future."

Functions and tasks

The European Defence Agency, within the overall mission set out in the Agency's constituent act, is ascribed four functions, covering:

- developing defence capabilities;
- promoting Defence Research and Technology (R&T);
- promoting armaments co-operation;
- creating a competitive European Defence Equipment Market and strengthening the European Defence, Technological and Industrial Base.

All these functions relate to improving Europe's defence performance, by promoting coherence. A more integrated approach to capability development will contribute to better-defined future requirements on which collaborations - in armaments or R&T or the operational domain - can be built. More collaboration will, in turn, provide opportunities for industrial restructuring and progress towards the continental-scale demand and market, which industry needs.

Further information can be found on the Agency's web site at <http://www.eda.europa.eu>

Please note that any attempt by a tenderer to obtain confidential information, enter into unlawful agreements with competitors or influence the evaluation committee or the EDA during the process of examining, clarifying, evaluating and comparing tenders will lead to the rejection of his tender and may result in administrative penalties.

1.4 Participation of consortia

Consortia, may submit a tender on condition that it complies with the rules of competition.

A consortium may be a permanent, legally-established grouping or a grouping which has been constituted informally for a specific tender procedure.

Such grouping (or consortia) must specify the company or person heading the project (the leader) and must also submit a copy of the document authorising this company or person to submit a tender. All members of a consortium (i.e., the leader and all other members) are jointly and severally liable to the Contracting Authority.

In addition, each member of the consortium must provide the required evidence for the exclusion and selection criteria (see Section 3 of these tender specifications).

The participation of an ineligible person will result in the automatic exclusion of that person. In particular, if that ineligible person belongs to a consortium, the whole consortium will be excluded.

The compliance with the selection criteria (economic and financial capacity, technical and professional capacity requirements) will be verified on a consolidated level at the consortium level.

1.5 Sub-contracting

The tenderer must indicate clearly, which parts of the work will be sub-contracted.

Sub-contractors must satisfy the eligibility criteria applicable to the award of the contract. If the identity of the intended sub-contractor(s) is already known at the time of submitting the tender, all sub-contractors must provide the required evidence for the exclusion and selection criteria as detailed in Section 3 of these tender specifications.

If the identity of the sub-contractor is not known at the time of submitting the tender, the tenderer who is awarded the contract will have to seek the EDA's prior written authorisation before entering into a sub-contract.

Where no sub-contractor is given, the work will be assumed to be carried out directly by the bidder.

1.6 Presentation of the tenders

- Any additional information including that referred to above will be published on the EDA's website. Please ensure that you visit regularly the site for updates.

B. After the opening of tenders:

- If, after the tenders have been opened, some clarification is required in connection with a tender, or if obvious clerical errors in the submitted tender must be corrected, the EDA may contact the tenderer, although such contact may not lead to any alternation of the terms of the submitted tender.

1.9 Visits to EDA premises

No site visit/information meeting at EDA's premises is deemed necessary for this procedure.

1.10 Division into lots

This tender is not divided into lots. The tenderer must be in a position to be able to provide all the services requested.

1.11 Variants

In the absence of any such indication in the terms of reference your tender should not deviate from the supplies requested.

1.13 Contract provisions

In drawing up your tender, you should bear in mind the provisions of the draft contract (see Annex I to the present tender specifications). In particular, the draft contract indicates the method and the conditions for payments to the contractor.

2 Terms of Reference

The Terms of Reference will become part of the contract that may be awarded as a result of the tender.

2.1 Introduction: background of the invitation to tender

Future warfare will be characterized by very fast and long-range combat systems, intelligent and autonomous systems, and increasing system-of-system complexity leading to radically new demands on ever faster and more precise decision making. Future decision support systems can be supported by embedded simulations integrated with new AI technologies which proactively anticipates possible operational developments, and guides commanders via advanced graphical user interfaces. Recent developments within massive parallel on-line simulation technology, several different AI technologies, new user interface technology, and computing technology support this concept.

As an example of these generic methods, consider an enemy attack using fast long-range missiles against air-bases possible followed by an air combat phase. The task of the defending commander is to optimally use all available resources including sensor systems, long-range ground-to-air missiles and fighter aircraft. To optimally manage the sequential use of all resources in a relative short time surpasses human capabilities. By using the computational resources of the decision support system for simulation of possible future developments, all options at the disposal to the decision maker can be evaluated leaving the commander free to focus on overall combat strategies.

2.2 Description of the subject and scope of the contract

The aim of the contract is to provide tools for gaining decisive advantages in time-critical operations by increasing the pace of decision making and thereby getting inside the opponent's OODA-loop (Observe-Orient-Decide-Act).

The contract will focus on constructing a conceptual design of a decision support system for air combat and long-range weapon battle management using embedded simulations closely integrated with novel Artificial Intelligence (AI) methodologies. The conceptual design will be based on tools from the research frontier of simulation and AI technologies, and operational requirements obtained from stakeholders such as Air Combat Training & Simulation Centers. In addition, the study will implement an experiment of the methodology, and identify all necessary steps needed to implement the conceptual design in a following EDA ad hoc project.

2.3 Technical characteristics of the supplies required

The study will contain :

WP 0: Management of the study

Initial Gantt chart, WBS and risk assessment.

Updated Planning, Meeting agenda, presentations & reports.

WP 1: Conceptual design describing how key technologies can be closely integrated in novel operational decision support.

The concept will be elaborate from generic consideration applied to every time-critical operation, to more specific operations (as for the case of "air combat and long-range weapon battle management")

It will also highlight how novel technologies, simulations and process enable to increase rhythm in time constrain operational decision supports.

WP 2: Breakthrough devices and disruption technologies landscaping

A landscaping of technologies, devices and simulation type has to be studied. About simulation, it will cover not only the area concerned by the capability “air combat and long-range weapon battle management”, but shall be open to other capabilities (tender will be more precise on that point).

Landscaping will cover applicable technologies, usable to realize this concept:

- Embedded (on mobile platform) distributed simulation
- Artificial intelligence (know how learning, best practices, machine learning, ...)
- Advanced user interfaces (3D, immersive devices,...)
- Computing (data farming, ...)

Concerning AI technologies, the landscaping should offer a large view of the possibilities, and a choice for these applicable to the “test case”.

The landscaping will describe the state of the art for each technology, process, equipment. It will also identify the gaps to fill.

The offer will mention the details of the areas proposed to be described.

WP3: Concept Demonstration

The contract will deliver a demonstration of an experiment, and provide a roadmap for an EDA ad hoc project proposal for designing and implementing a generic prototype decision support system.

- Demonstrator: the conceptual design should be implemented with real or simulated equipment in order to play a scenario with some vignettes, in order to validate the potential of this solution.
- Scenario: has to be demonstrative enough to validate the gap to fill. It could be played with equipment available under responsibility of the contractor.
- Demonstration: The demo will be played with the scenario in a computational environment. The contractor will have the responsibility to find the personnel, the infrastructure and to create such a representative environments/scenarios, comparisons that relevant conclusions shall be drawn.
- Exploitation of the results: Different processes could be used for catching all the benefit of the demonstrator and the associated demonstrations. The tenderer will propose its way of assessing the results

WP4: Conclusion and technical roadmap

- Roadmap of a possible cat B study will be established.
- A “Media kit” (flyer and .ppt or video) will be elaborated to present the ideas to member states point of contact and EU military Staff and convince them to allocate funds.

Nomenclature and format proposed for the deliverables :

D0.x: Management documents of the project (Planning, WBS, risk assessment, Meeting agenda, presentations & reports)

In order to avoid misunderstandings in the final deliverables, the contractor shall organize intermediate meetings, every 2 months. (They can be held in virtual rooms (VTC, phone conference or Lync) if necessary)

The kick-off meeting shall take place at EDA premises after the signature of the contract. Details concerning meetings will be discussed and agreed in the kick-off meeting.
